FOREWORD.

Dear Friends.

The note of hope that was struck in the last magazine has, alas, received a heavy blow. The news of the massacres which took place in the early spring at and around Marash, was indeed a terrible shock to those who had been expecting order and quietness in that part of Asia Minor, seeing that the French troops were in occupation. This distressing news was in striking contrast to the hopes anticipated, and it was indeed difficult to believe that such crimes had really been perpetrated on these helpless people an ugly nightmare it appeared for a time, but one was awakened to the sorry truth that 14 months after the signing of the Armistice these fearful atrocities had taken place. This crime leaves a trail of further destruction, devastation, sorrow and pain.

Our faithful worker, Miss Salmond, we are thankful to report is safe and fairly well. The last magazine mentioned the accident from which she had been suffering, and on page 4 further information is given about her. It is not the first time that she has looked upon such tragedies as those recently reported, nor her heart ached for these sufferers. Therefore, it is a great comfort to know she is still at her usual place, and, though invalided and her strength limited by her recent accident, we rejoice in the assurance that she will be a tower of strength to the Armenian people around her, who again have passed through "great tribulation." For her long years of experience and sympathetic understanding well equip her for the task of raising the downcast and healing the broken-hearted.

From Miss Frearson at Aintab, we have had no letter for some months, but Dr. W. W. Peet, at Constantinople, says, under date of March 20th, that the Missionary Circle at Aintab are safe and well, so we trust that Miss Frearson is carrying on her work steadily, though unable to get a letter through to us. Later news, however, received from 'Adana, dated 23rd April, and telling of the surrounding of Aintab by a large force of Nationalists, gives us cause for much anxiety as to Miss Frearson's safety.

At Brumana, near Beyrout, Miss Cunnington is persevering with the Industrial work among the Armenian and Syrian refugees, and we hope very shortly to receive some samples of the work. This way of administering relief funds is such a blessing to the destitute people. Letters from Miss Cunnington will be found on page . Her colleagues, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Fox, are expected to arrive in England in May, for a necessary rest. It is have sacrificed so much for their faith, they have held sufficiently recovered from his serious illness to take this journey.

Miss Annie Davies, one of the fine workers at the International Hospital, Adana, after her 12 months furlough is sailing now for Beyrout. She is going back to those stricken Armenian people with a stout heart full of courage and faith. On page will be found an account of her past work and her hopes for

In view of the present unsettled state of the Near East, the Committee have been discussing a new centre as a place of refuge for the Armenian people (on lines similar to those of the Port Said Camp), where they could be safe from their oppressors, but not too far from their old homes, should they wish to return. More than one place has been suggested, but it is a big proposition, and until further enquiries are made as to suitable buildings, etc., definite details cannot be given. Needless to say, monetary aid will be essential for the forwarding of this new scheme. A few of the items needed for this work are shelters, food supplies, medical supplies, clothing, materials for industries for the elder girls and women, and school equipment for the orphaned children.

All is chaos and unrest in that troublous part of the world, and the call comes to all to do their part in relieving the present sad conditions there. It is difficult to imagine a large area on which towns and villages stood, now devastated, and the thousands of terrified women, children, and even a remnant of men fleeing for miles and miles in their anxiety to escape their persecutors. Words cannot express the dire helplessness of these multitudes of refugees, homeless, with little clothing, starving and utterly depressed and broken in spirit. If we could witness such scenes, what should we do? Surely our hearts would be stirred with great feelings of sympathy, but though we have not had a glance at the real conditions, we can and must put forth every effort to assist these Eastern Christians as far as is in our power.

The workers on the field have given their time, strength, love, and years of devoted service, and have shown wonderful heroism in their sorrowful tasks which have never been harder than they are to-day. There has never been worse distress, never more misery, never such innocent suffering. Relief gifts of money and goods have been forwarded, but still further sums are needed adequately to touch the fringe of suffering among so many. No people in the world have suffered more than the Armenians. No people satisfactory to know that Mr. Marshall Fox is now high the standard of Christianity for centuries on the compels us to make fresh appeals for help. We appeal the burdens of this much tried race? Your gifts, your help, your loving sympathy, and your prayerful interest—all are essential. If you cannot give all, you can give one, and each is equally needed and precious.

Yours gratefully, MARGARET RUSSELL, Secretary.

The Call of a Consecrated Worker.

As mentioned in the Foreword Miss Annie Davies is now sailing for the East. Her first visit will be to Miss Cunnington, whom she hopes to assist for a short time, until she is led to either Tarsus or Adana, to wherever may seem best for her to do her share in raising up a part of the down trodden remnant of the Armenian race. She has a splendid vision of starting a fine work a little later on, possibly in the form of a nursing home where the sick people can be aided, and also where the native Armenian girls can be trained as nurses. At present she is just going to help in relief work of any kind as she is needed. Ouite a number of the American Red Cross workers are leaving Adana and that district, so Miss Davies will find plenty of scope for her energies. She too, like Miss Salmond, has a vast knowledge of the people, and such experienced workers are invaluable. The Friends of Armenia are to be entirely responsible for her work, and have promised to support her in her sphere of labour. Any gifts sent for her special branch of the work will be forwarded to her. The following notes from her pen tell of her past work, as well as describing the various needs in the Near East, thus showing the necessity for earnest, devoted workers.-[Ed.]

It is nearly 18 years since I heard the Lord's call to serve Him in the Foreign field. I did not know then where He would send me, but after two years of training in a Missionary Training Home, and after gaining some experience in nursing, the Lord opened the way for me to go to Palestine. There I spent 51/2 happy years in that land so sacred to us because of our Lord's life on earth. There we saw in daily life the things from which Christ took so many of His Parables. The village people around Nazareth specially appeal to me. How sad to think that they are steeped in ignorance and superstition on account of false teaching; thousands of villagers knowing nothing of the True Light who alone can give light and peace. The state of the women and girls is sad beyond expression; treated too often as beasts of burden and considered to have no minds; they are little better than slaves. How one longs for the entrance of teaching of God's Word and for the Spirit filled Messengers to be scattered throughout the length and breadth of the Land.

In 1909 while helping in Beyrout news came of a terrible Armenian massacre at Adana, so intense was the need and suffering that many workers from kind of work, and she gives some over-sight to my borders of Asia, and their present terrible condition Beyrout volunteered to help them. I was privileged to be one of the number; shall I ever forget the to all our readers to give of their sufficiency that the awful condition of the poor Armenians. Thousands little children in far-off Armenia shall not be forsaken of homeless families were out in the fields, their homes and neglected. Will you take a share in lightening having been burnt down, thousands suffering from fearful wounds and also thousands of orphans whose parents had been tortured cruelly, murdered or burnt

> I joined Mrs. Doughty Wylie and helped to care for the sick and wounded for several months. From that time I felt the Lord meant me to stay in that stricken place, and there I have been ever since helping in the hospital which, through the ministry of Dr. Haas, the native workers and others has been the means of healing and blessing, not only to Adana, but to hundreds of the surrounding villages.

> The outbreak of the war brought with it many changes and troubles for the hospital work, though one will always thank God that it was for a great part of the time a shelter and place of refuge for hundreds of our British Prisoners of War. The deportation of Armenians with all its horrors caused us deep sorrow and suffering, so little were we allowed to help them. After a year's furlough of real rest and refreshment I hope to return as soon as possible to this land. Conditions have so changed even during my short stay at home that I hardly know what I am going back to; no definite plans can be made. But the need was never greater, never was the poverty so great, never was the need for the ministry of Christ's people to these poor suffering people greater.

> May I ask before leaving, a share in the prayers of all who read this brief sketch, that God may use me just as He wants to, and that I may go filled with His Spirit to be a vessel fit for the Master's use.

MARASH NEWS.

Marash, Feb. 10th, 1920.

My dear Friends and Miss Russell,

There is an opportunity given us of once more writing to you, for the French Regiment who are leaving us, have kindly offered to take some mail, so we trust you will hear from many sources of what kind of life we have been living these last three weeks or more. I will not attempt to give you any detail of it, for I am sure others will write you fully, and even now we know not what the outcome of this terrible warfare is to be for us. Our trust is in the Lord of Hosts: He Who has so far protected us can and will do so if it be His sweet Will. God is our Refuge and Strength, a Present Help. I will speak of myself, being as yet unable to walk around, and out and in, and have to look on my fellow-workers and see them so very, very busy. They brought me up from the hospital as it was not so very safe there, and here I am in the Girls' College again where I stayed the former war years. Miss Blakeley is still here, so tired and yet so over-worked. Miss Hardy is a tower of strength to many, and Miss Ainslie just returned in December to resume her work as a teacher in the College, has had to take a different little flock of girls in Beulah, which is just across the street, she sleeps there nights, and Marta mothers the girls during the day. No one is able to go out; it is a peculiar position to be in. We are getting short of supplies of food and of everything almost. It is a most peculiar situation that we have been in, and in which we are still. But I said I would not write of what I see and hear and feel, only if this reaches you do not forget us here. I am the only Britisher, but there is a nice company of Americans, and they are deciding to remain here for the present and I with them. I cannot run away, so just try to be patient and submissive, and rest in a loving Father's care, and you will pray, I am sure, for the poor Armenians, we thought that they would not be called on again to pass through such trials. Dear Miss Russell, I will ask you to send on this message to my sisters. I send loving greetings to all who have thought of, prayed for, and supported this work in so many ways, and to you also Miss Russell, and to good Mr. Brooks.

Believe me,

Very sincerely yours, AGNES C. SALMOND.

BEULAH AND EBENEZER ORPHANAGES. MARASH.

A Member of the American Commission for Relief in the Near East called on the Secretary, while in London, and informed her that at the time she left Marash, in February, there was 105 of the youngest children in the city at Beulah, our Marash Orphanage. Marta, who was rescued in 1898 and trained in the Orphanage, is now matron of it, under Miss Salmond's supervision. She was then reported safe and well, and continuing to carry on the work. When the fighting started there were 287 boys in the Ebenezer Orphanage. About 60 of these left the city with the French Army, but quite 200 remained.

THE CHURCH AND ARMENIA.

A solemn service of intercession on behalf of the Christians in the Ottoman Empire, during which a plea was made "for their liberation from the oppression of the Turk and from affliction and danger of death," was held at Southwark Cathedral on March oth. The service, which was arranged by the Anglican and Eastern Association, was attended by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Armenian Patriarch of Constantinople, the Archbishop of Trebizond, and the Archbishop of Syria. The Rev. J. A. Douglas was the preacher.

CONSTANTINOPLE NEWS.

6th April, 1920.

My dear Friend,

Your letter came with a sweet bit of cheer. We are, you can imagine, not happy; this morning news has arrived that there is trouble in Nicomidia. It comes nearer and nearer, and one wonders greatly what the outcome of it all will be for our dear Armenian people. What the poor Armenians suffered in Marash is heart breaking. Yesterday we received the news direct from an eyewitness, and one who ran with his wife and a baby ten days old day and night in the thick snow and blizzard for six days; they journeyed with hardly enough to eat to keep death away. One could write pages and pages about the experiences of those days. I could only sit in silence with wet eyes and a torn heart. One cannot understand why a nation has to suffer so much. My experience of Armenians is that they are a hard working, patient, struggling people, always in suffering and fear, but many of a strong faith.

I just now rang up Mr. Peet for the latest news of Miss Salmond and Miss Frearson. Dr. Peet says that the latest news is that they are well and still at their posts. I have no Bill of Lading yet for Miss Salmond's things. Of course, I shall be happy to keep everything safe here till she can be reached. Our house is full of refugees waiting for their sewing, but I want to get this note off to you without losing any time. Thank you so much for enquiring about Gold Thread, silks, etc.

I shall be delighted to get the sheeting. I have taken all the sheets of the house except those we must have for use. We have cut up curtains, sheets, towelling, and everything we could lay hand on. The poor will be so glad to get it. I made beautiful work on calico during the war and it sold very fast. After the Armistice I had about sixty tops of calico lost when we were turned out, or I could have done great things with it. I wonder what England is like, I cannot leave for home while everything here is upside down. I must try and see our Armenians safe through if possible. I shall be glad of blouses for our people. am so glad you saw the Patriarch. I shall post all I have ready of your things this week.

With much thanks,

A. M. BURGESS.

March 20th, 1920.

Dear Miss Russell,

Some days ago-immediately on my first authentic news from Marash showing that our missionary body there are safe—I telegraphed you. This telegram I confirmed later by letter.

I now hold in my hand a letter written by Miss Salmond herself, dated Marash, March 4th, in which she states that she is thankful for having passed through unharmed all the troubles that have fallen upon the place where she lives. She hopes that I may be able to pass on this information to her friends in London and elsewhere. Will you kindly do this also. Mr. Shepard, of Aintab, son of the late Dr. Shepard, who was so long our beloved physician in Aintab, and Dr. Lambert, of the American Relief Committee at Aleppo, have just visited Marash, and their visit has brought cheer and help to all who are there. The future is somewhat uncertain, but we continue to believe that no harm will come to our friends in Marash.

I am, Yours faithfully,

W. W. PEET.

Letter from Miss Salmond to Dr. Peet.

Marash, 4th March, 1920. Dr. W. W. Peet.

Dear Dr. Peet,

I have no particular message to write except to say how thankful I am to find myself alive and unharmed through all the troubles we have passed through. I believe that you have ways of passing on such information to the anxious ones in London and elsewhere. You will have fuller information I am sure. We were so glad to see Dr. Shepard and Dr. Lambert, and we believe some good must result from all this.

May I ask you to pass on this note to Miss Burgess of the Friends Meeting House.

I remain with many thanks for all your care.

Yours sincerely, (Signed) AGNES C. SALMOND.

Friends Mission, 9th April, 1920.

We are much concerned for the Armenians in Asia Minor. Rest and happiness seems far away from these dear people. I rejoice that it is my lot to try and comfort those around me in their fears and sorrows. Easter brings but a little of Easter cheer, while death seems to be stamped on most things belonging to this unfortunate race. . . . I am so glad winter is behind us. I have now received the Bill of Lading for Miss Salmond's things, and we shall see the things safely stored till the way opens to send on the goods. . . . God bless the labour of your Society for these poor people is my daily prayer.

The Armenian Patriarch of Constantinople and The Friends of Armenia.

His Beatitude, The Armenian Patriarch of Constantinople, during his visit to London, kindly accepted an invitation from the Committee to a small reception held at the office on March 16th, 1920. Our President, Lady Frederick Cavendish, being unable to attend, sent a kind letter of welcome to His Beatitude, which was read by the Hon. Mrs. Fraser. Shortly after the arrival of His Beatitude, a few words of welcome having been expressed, he kindly consented to being photographed as shown on page .

The following members of Committee and friends were present :- Mon. Mrs. A. G. Fraser, Hon. Mrs. Edwyn Bevan, Mrs. Montgomrey, Miss Thomson, Mrs. Alfred Brooks, Miss Annie Davies (or Adana), Miss H. E. Wallis (formerly at Adana), Mr. E. Wright Brooks, Rev. Canon H. Bickersteth Ottley, Mr. H. M. Gooch, Mr. A. G. Fraser, Prof. Thoumaian and Miss M. Russell, Secretary.

While tea was being served an opportunity was given for individual conversation with the Patriarch. Our Treasurer, Mr. E. Wright Brooks, in welcoming the Patriarch, referred to the sufferings of the Armenian people, and expressed the deep sympathy with them, of those who had served for many years on the Committee. The Hon. Mrs. A. G. Fraser and the Rev. Canon H. Bickersteth Ottley expressed their pleasure at having an opportunity of personally meeting His Beatitude, the Head of the Armenian Church. His Beatitude, in responding, kindly consented to address the gathering in Armenian, and the speech was translated by Prof. Thoumaian, who has been in England for many years. The following are extracts from the Patriarch's speech, which was exceedingly interesting, though pathetic.

"It is a great pleasure to me to come here among those who have done much for my nation for so many years. . . . It is because we Armenians are Christians that we have been persecuted for centuries.

"If the Armenians had renounced their faith there would be 20 millions to-day instead of 3 millions. . . We have friends all over England, and I am very grateful for the warm sympathy and welcome shown to me by all friends in England, whether Churchmen, Laymen, or Civic. After the Armistice was signed, we had right from the beginning the idea that one or more of the Allied nations would help us in the end. At the time of the Berlin Congress, 1878, an Armenian Patriarch went to the Congress to appeal for the Freedom of Armenia. He went with papers and, of course, there were many nations represented. . . . At that time the Armenians could not fight, but now they can. If the French have occupied Cilicia it was because the Armenians helped. In the Russian Army there were between 150 and 180 thousand Armenians fighting against the Germans. Also a great number fought for France. We are very glad and very thankful that the blood which we had shed was not in vain, for the blood will rise to the Throne of God, and He will answer by the Freedom of Armenia. This is why we, on the Eve of Independence of Armenia, think the "Friends of Armenia" are more valuable, and we ask the Committee of the Society not only to continue, but to double their efforts. I value much more the helpful giving to us from the English. Other nations we do not deny have helped us, also, but the help we receive from England touches our hearts more. It is following the teaching of the Lord Jesus Christ-in the giving of bread and by giving the people work—thereby helping them to help is that we may stand on our own feet.

"I know Miss Burgess and how she works in you and be your reward." Constantinople, and she is happy in the work that she is carrying on which brings her much joy, as it gives the Armenians work to help themselves. On reaching London. I had intended to come to the "Friends of Armenia," and am very glad that the "Friends of the Rev. Canon H. Bickersteth Ottley pronounced the Armenia '' found me. I would like you to receive the Benediction.

The Massacres at Marash.

By DR. MABEL ELLIOTT.

Dr. Mabel Elliott is the first to reach Europe of the English-speaking missionaries who were besieged at Marash during the recent Armenian massacres there. No full account of the massacres by an eye-witness, such as Dr. Elliott gives below, has hitherto been published in England.

I HAVE been asked to give an account of my experiences at Marash during the massacre and the fighting that took place there this winter.

I feel that no language that I could use could exaggerate the horror of the scenes that I witnessed. I meat. The French found that they could get no of events as they came under my notice.

I was in Marash from May 17th, 1919, till February Near East Relief Committee. There were a number of American institutions in Marash, of which the hospital where I was serving was one of the most important. Each of the American buildings was surrounded by a compound, and a high wall for defensive purposes. Indeed, a large proportion of the buildings in Marash looked more like fortresses than ordinary houses. One was reminded occasionally of mediæval Florence, but the ordinary conditions of life in the Turkish Empire make it even more necessary to build on fortress lines, if one can afford it, than of a plan I gave them. was the case in Italy in the fifteenth century.

On January 19th, 1920, we were celebrating the Armenian Christmas. The town was occupied by the French, and I had, at that time, in my hospital, about twenty French soldiers, who had been wounded in the skirmishes with Turkish Nationalists that had been taking place frequently ever since the British went out. There was no hint of the horrible events that were to take place so soon. On the very next day (January 20th) firing suddenly broke out all around the town. The hospital occupied the most central position of all the American institutions, and a machine-gun was installed on the third floor. I was the only doctor there; with me were Mrs. Power, an American lady, and a number of Armenians nurses. The first hint we got of danger to ourselves was when several bullets came through the window where the machine-gun was. At the same time a French sentry was killed at the gate, and shortly afterwards the machine-gunner was also hit and killed. Firing went on all that night and for three whole weeks afterwards.

We had only eight French soldiers under a sergeant as a guard at the hospital; most of the garrison of 3,000 were at the Latin church. After the first day we did not dare to look out of the windows, as, in addition to promiscuous firing, there was a Turkish house on the opposite side of the road from which we were sniped at continually.

At first we were entirely cut off from the other Americans, but later the French made a hole in the wall of the compound at the back of the hospital, through which we could climb into a communication trench, and so make our way to the American college immediately behind us and to other American institutions. Fortunately we had plenty of food, the winter supply having just been taken in, and we obtained water from our own spring. One of the American establishments (the Orphanage) was less fortunate, for their water supply was entirely cut off by the Turks. But one of the Armenians who took refuge in the Orphanage when the firing began turned out to be the builder of the house, and showed them a secret spring from which water was obtained. You have to think of things like that when you build houses in Marash.

In the American College January 20th happened to be the day for giving out clothing to the poor, and about a thousand poor people were there when the firing began. All of these remained and had to be shells into it one day, but without much effect. fed for three weeks. Luckily we had some fresh Finally they threw kerosene torches in from an shall, therefore, content myself with a plain narrative fodder for their mules, so these animals were slaughtered and the meat divided between us and the garrison. On January 22nd an American got into 10th, 1920, working there on behalf of the American our hospital from the college and stayed one night. On the 23rd, 24th, and 25th we two women, with the French soldiers, were the only Europeans there. The firing got worse every day. All the patients had to be put on the floor, because of the bullets coming through the windows. Two American men got in again on Sunday, 25th; they had discovered that there were two American women absolutely isolated in an Armenian house nearly opposite, being constantly fired at by the Turks. They determined to rescue them, and managed to do so at night with the aid

> On the 27th the massacres of Armenians in the town of Marash began. The Turks slaughtered them wherever they found them, and wounded soon began to pour into the hospital. Most of them crawled in from the street covered with blood. I remember one poor old woman who was shot through the lung, thigh, and ankle, and yet managed to get to us though the flesh was taken off her knees down to the bone through crawling through the streets.

> All through that night we could hear at intervals a thud in the compound where some wretched Armenian had climbed the wall and dropped down inside faint from his injuries. The told us appalling stories of the slaughter of their families, babies killed in cold blood, and other things too horrible to write. The wife of the Armenian Protestant pastor came in with three gunshot wounds and four terrible stabs, and told us how her two children had been knifed before her eyes. She had another baby, poor woman, as soon as she got into the hospital and died within forty-eight hours. Her case was only one of hundreds, but I mention it here as she was a particularly attractive woman, refined and well educated.

> In another part of the town we had established a Rescue Home to receive Armenian women who had been taken away from their families and forced into Turkish harems during previous troubles at Marash. There were seventy-three of these women in the Home, some of whom had been freed by the Turks under the terms of the Armistice with the Allies, while others had escaped from the harems independently. The Turks now captured the place and carried off all the women after murdering the poor old Armenian matron in her bed. Later I saw the son of this poor woman in Alexandria, and had to break the news to

As the fighting went on the French wounded also began to come in, and the hospital was terribly overcrowded. We had 250 refugees and about 150 wounded, I was the only doctor. We were unable to use our operating-room because it was in the front of the house and had thin plaster walls easily pierced by bullets, so we had to start an emergency theatre under the main staircase.

The French now took steps to suppress the Turkish house opposite, which was full of snipers who had caused us many casualties. The French fired four adjoining Armenian house, and burnt it to the ground. communicate with headquarters at the cost. Further-We had more peace after that.

All this went on, as I have said, for three weeks. On February 9th Gapt. Arlabose, the French military doctor, came over to the hospital and told us in reply discontinue this fighting, but it is a National movement and we have to await orders from headquarters."

view of the controversy which has taken place in the London Press as to who was really responsible for these massacres. On February 9th another letter from Shukri Bey, addressed to me personally, was moved over to the Emergency Hospital, where the thrown over the wall. In it he said that he had given American, Dr. Wilson, his wife, and another lady, and more, he was undoubtedly short of ammunition.

I will never forget the night of February oth. We were up all night getting the wounded out, but there was a terrible panic among the Armenians when they to our questions that the French intended to retreat heard of the impending evacuation. People would from Marash. We were much distressed and not a come rushing in and pick up their relatives, sick, little puzzled by this decision. About four days wounded, and dying, and stagger out with them into earlier a letter had been thrown over the compound the night to try and join the French. All except the wall, signed by Shukri Bey, an influential Turk of very ill got away. The wounded screamed to us to Marash, in which he said: "We wish we could give them poison rather than leave them behind. It was bitterly cold; and I remember that one patient died sitting up in bed. All this time we were trying I think this admission may be of some interest in to get our Armenian girl nurses ready for the seventyfive-mile march to Islahia. The French doctor, Capt. Arlabose, stayed with us all that night.

Next day (February 10th) all the serious cases were protection to thirteen Christian women and five men two American men had decided to stay with them.

in his house, but that he had been compelled to give He had no wireless at Marash, and could not therefore them up to the Turks in order to save his own life, and that he had now no Christians with him. At the time I was at a loss to account for all these explanations, but have since come to the conclusion that Shukri Bey was frightened, as were all the Turks at that time. In fact, that same night another note arrived pleading for mercy for the Turkish women and children if the French occupied the town. Obviously the Turks expected it. Indeed, next day, when the evacuation was just about to take place, the Turks sent a flag of truce to the American college (I saw it myself) asking the French for terms.

On February 8th I learnt that 3,000 French reinforcements had just arrived, and were encamped on the plain. But these reinforcements had brought with them the order to evacuate. The Turks, I believe, were on the very point of surrendering, but the French commander was bound to obey his orders.

Also a Miss Buckley was left behind, as the house she was in was completely isolated.

We left that night to join the reinforcements in the plain, starting at nine o'clock. When we got on to the hills outside the town we saw an appalling but magnificent spectacle. The greater part of Marash seemed to be in flames, and the French were shelling the town to cover the retreat. We got down into the plain and joined the column at 2 a.m., and we marched till 3.30 the next afternoon. Then I began for the first time to see people frozen to death. The first was a little child-a girl. At 8.30 a.m. we stopped to eat, and I went to look at the Armenian refugees. Their condition was pitiable, many of them were even without shoes. We reached Oulouglou village at 3.30, and stayed there till 6 a.m. next day with a party of French soldiers.

On the night of the 12th we reached another terrible blizzard. We struggled out in the morning somehow and made a start for Islahia. People were literally dropping dead on all sides. Every few yards one passed a shapeless bundle in the snow, and one was glad if it did not move. The column constantly got off the roads. Even many of the soldiers died of frost-bite, but at least we reached Islahia at 8 p.m. We had had nothing to eat since seven o'clock the night before.

About 2,000 Armenian refugees got into Islahia of the 4,000 who started from Marash.

Tarsus.

St. Paul's Institute, Tarsus, 28th March, 1920.

My dear Miss Russell,

This is to thank the dear Friends of Armenia for their recent gift of £250 towards the present year's expenses in this Collegiate Institute. Needless to say that in days like the present, such a generous grant was most acceptable.

We had been in the service for forty-two years, and felt that we ought to give our place to younger men, and to rest the few remaining years of our lives. We also felt that our children had a claim upon us. It comes hard to tear our hearts away from our work, and from a people with whom we have been associated for so long, but the time had to come to do so. We little dreamed when we sent our cable announcing our decision that already one of our children in America had gone to be for ever with the Lord. It was our daughter Agnes who died December 31st in Boston. She was with us for three years before the war, but left with other missionaries in the fall of 1915. It is very hard for us after many separations, and this last our dream of having her again with us, and this time in a happy home in America from which nothing could separate us, but God knows what is best for us, and deals with us in love as well as wisdom infinite.

We shall leave here within a few weeks, I hope. Our American address will be C/o The American Board, No. 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., U.S.A. I have to thank you for a kind letter you wrote me a few weeks ago. I think I replied, but am not sure. Please remember me to all friends at the Rooms, and to others who were there before as Mrs. Hickson and her daughter. We shall never lose interest in your service for this poor, destitute and afflicted people. God has dealt hardly by them, and must have great blessing in store as a compensation for their suffer-village. It began to snow, and finally there was a ings. It is for us to love them and to pray for them, and with our gifts to send sympathy and messages of encouragement.

Just at present the Rev. Paul E. Nilson is in charge of the work of the Institute.

Sincerely your friend,

CARMELITE B. CHRISTIE.

Death of Dr. Raynolds, of Van.

Our friends will hear with sorrow of the death of that saint and hero, Dr. Raynolds, who died in San Francisco in February last, in the eighty-first year of his age.

Dr. Raynolds and his wife were the earthly Providence of the Armenians in Van for 41 years. It was a life of constant and arduous work, of rigid selfsacrifice, and never ending calls on sympathy and material help. And yet they were happy and gloried in their work and in all that developed from it. Dr. Raynolds was a man who followed Christ as his Master in every particular of life, who recognised love as the keynote of existence, and who gave ungrudgingly of the best that was in him to the service of the oppressed people with whom his lot was cast, he and his wife suffered with them. I well remember how I am glad to report that the school is able to hold Mrs. Raynolds told me, when she was in England, its own, notwithstanding many difficulties. There is how hard it was to sit down to dinner when she knew a fair sized Faculty-not east to collect-and a well that so many of their poor people were starving, "and selected lot of students, and much to encourage. You yet," she added pathetically, "we must eat to keep have probably heard that Mr. Christie and myself well, and so be able to help them, although the food have resigned our Mission work. We did this in nearly chokes us." And this state of things was not January. The load had become too heavy for us to for one day, or one week, or one month, but for a long continued season! Imagine the love and faith and devotion that enable them and their colleagues to work on under such conditions; only those inspired by Christ's love and example could do it. Dr. Raynolds was one of those who believed, with Edith Cavell, that Patriotism-though fine and enobling-was not enough; that to think internationally was a higher form of service than to think imperially, and that international Christianity should be a force in the regeneration of the world. It is hard to remember that this noble pair were separated, when in 1914 the missionaries at Van were compelled to fly to the Caucasus, and Mrs. Raynolds died in Tiflis without the comfort of her husband's presence; for he was away in America and arrived too late. And now they one due to war conditions, to just miss of realising are together again, and have received the welcome given to all faithful servants-the "Well Done" of their Lord. And were their lives sad? I do not think so. They were amongst those who recognized fully the splendid fact of God's Fatherhood and man's brotherhood; they had seen the supreme vision, and with patient, hopeful love and strong endeavour they went out into the world, bringing sweetness and light to its dark places-healing souls and bodies and piloting into harbour many a poor, derelict soul, adrift on wild waters. They working with Him, made manifest the Saviour's Love on earth. And such souls are happy. We thank God for them, and bid farewell to our friends, trusting that we may be found worthy to meet them, where there is no more sorrow or tears.

REV. GEORGE C. RAYNOLDS, M.D., D.D.

News has just been received of the death of Dr. Raynolds, of Van, in California, about a month ago.

Particulars are still lacking.

Dr. Raynolds and his wife went out in 1869 to Harpout, and after visiting Bitlis and Van, moved to Van in 1872, where they spent forty-one years. He was a graduate of Williams College and the Medical School of New York University, and was born in February, 1839. Though a trained physician and practising all the time, his greatest interest was in evangelistic work, and he was never quite so happy as when touring among the people. His interest in education also showed itself in his work in the Boys' School, which finally developed into what was to have become a college, had not the great war interfered; and he was to have been the president. In all his incessant travels through a region by no means always safe, he was only once attacked, in 1883, by the famous Kourdish Chief, Mousa Bey, receiving six ugly gashes on the head, the marks of which he always carried. With the indemnity received from the Turkish Government for this attack a windmill was purchased and set up in the Van Mission premises, to bless all who lived

Dr. Raynolds came to Turkey after the close of the American Civil War as an ordained medical missionary. During the war he served in the capacity of medical officer in the Northern navy. The American Board assigned him to the Eastern Turkey Mission, and he and Mrs. Raynolds were located in friends, Dr. and Mrs. Christie, of Tarsus, by the Van. Here he began the medical work, which afterwards developed into a fine missionary hospital, the fame of which spread throughout Eastern Turkey.

direct evangelistic than in medical work. So he more about Dr. Christie, who was seriously ill in Tarsus and more devoted himself with untiring enthusiasm at that time, and it was touching to see how the to preaching in Van and the surrounding towns and villages. In the city a strong evangelical church was built up, differing from all others in Turkey, because couraged her. The home-coming to America will be the membership in it was not regarded as a sufficient reason for separation from the Gregorian church. In our heartfelt sympathy to our friends, and earnestly this way the closest relations between the two hope that after their lives of strenuous, self-sacrificing churches were always maintained.

The massacres of 1895 left a large number of orphans in Van as elsewhere. Not having any children of their own, Dr. Raynolds and his wife henceforth made the care and training of orphans their life work. In this way Dr. Raynolds became the father of many hundreds of boys and girls who loved and honoured him as their greatest benefactor. Naturally, special emphasis was placed by Dr. Raynolds on the development of strong Christian character in his children, and he had the pleasure of seeing them grow up into useful men and women. Many of them became teachers and preachers. Others studied medicine or pharmacy, and all of them learned some trade by which they could earn their living.

Dr. Raynolds was very successful in finding friends in England and America, who were glad to give the money necessary for the support of the orphans.

In 1913 Dr. Raynolds went to America to collect funds for the establishment of a College in Van. Then the war broke out, and he was unable to return. Mrs. Raynolds fled from Van to Russia with the other missionaries when it was impossible longer to stay in Turkey. She met with an accident on the way, and died in Tiflis. Dr. Raynolds arrived there only in time to attend the funeral. As there was nothing to do in Van owing to the flight of all the Armenian survivors of the massacre there, Rr. Raynolds returned to America, but came back to Erivan as soon as the way opened in 1916, and was there for over a year, engaged again in his beloved work of caring for Armenian orphans. When the Germans came to the Caucasus in 1917, Dr. Raynolds was forced to return to America once more, going by the way of Siberia and Japan. In Seattle he was taken severely ill, and his friends gave up all hope of his recovery. However, he lived through it, and his last year was spent in making a home in Berkeley, California, for some of his orphan boys and girls who were attending the University there.

Van is in ruins; many of Dr. Raynolds' children were slaughtered by the Turks or died of disease or starvation, in exile and loneliness. Much of his life work seemed to end in failure. But his was a beautiful, kindly, prayerful, Christ-like life, which brought blessing and cheer to thousands of other lives, and will live on in the permanent results achieved as well as in the lives of those who loved him so well .- Orient.

The Death of Agnes Christie.

We grieve to hear of the sorrow caused to our dear death of their daughter Agnes, which took place recently in America. I well remember the sweet, gentle girl when she was in England with her mother, But Dr. Raynolds was more deeply interested in some ten years or so ago. They were in great anxiety mother leant on her child for comfort and hope, and how the daughter responded and cheered and ensad without the dear daughter's welcome, and we offer and devoted work at Tarsus-work full of the utmost value-they may have years of rest and quiet happiness in their native land, supported by the love and devotion of the children yet remaining to them.

Adana.

(Extracts from letter to Miss H. E. Wallis, from Miss Borel, of Adana, dated March 17th.)

Referring to the very terrible happenings in Marash Miss B. adds, "The eight Americans left, and Miss Salmond were all right in their buildings. You heard perhaps that Miss Salmond had broken her hip some time in January, and was disabled just at the time of the war and massacre of February. . . . Dr. Eliott who passed through here told us of the way she had carried Miss Salmond from the hospital, which was much exposed, to the Girl's college buildings at night through the trenches, helped by French soldiers.

The A.C.R.N.E. and the Y.M.C.A., through Miss Owens of the Y.W.C.A., came to the rescue of the Marash refugees, but you can imagine that it cannot last indefinitely. How these thousands of new besides the old, by thousands are to find ways of living is more than one can imagine. The cost of living is increasing daily in an arbitrary and impossible way. The bandits are getting nearer and nearer! Hadjin for Hadjin, and could not pass through.

(Later news reports two in Hadjin with the two ladies.) We hear Ebez is surrounded, while the people from Char, Fike, and other places are flying to Hadjin.

You can well imagine what terror the Marash happenings has spread in Adana, Tarsus, and Mersina, for it is evident that wherever and whenever the brigands of Mustafa Khemal attack, the work starts in the place even by the Turks. You know must be surrounded. Miss Cold wired a few days how pitiful is the crowd of trembling unsettled people ago about the difficulties increasing daily. She is who realize there is nowhere to flee! . . . Now-apractically alone with Miss Clark up there. Two of days the heart aches all the time for sorrows that you the A.C.R.N.E. young men started a few days ago cannot relieve or help excepting through sympathy, and this seems so perfectly inadequate.

I Stevens who is now taking my place at our little just flew to give her the cheque, and it is a great Hospital, had put down on her list the question of anxiety off her mind-a thousand thanks to the F. of

I see that sewing machines are not on the in the war except a few cousins, and she dreads the invoices—we needed them rather badly, as the few idea of ever returning to her home, now so desolate. She is happy here with us and likes Brumana, and she is much improved in health since she came.

I now have about 18 of the packages from England up here and in my charge, the rest are to come up this week-some pilfering has taken place, and the boxes are badly knocked about! I had to pick out most of the skeins of embroidery, silk from amongst dust and spilt rice on the floor of the lorry which brought the goods up here. Rice was amongst most of the buttons and hooks and eyes, etc., but that did not matter-it is so good to get some of the things that come up from Port Said are in a terrible state of damage and neglect. In Beyrout a new shuttle costs 8/-, and other parts are at a corresponding price. We have only about 14 in all of good, bad and indifferent, and most of them are of the two latter description. I will write more next time, and will close this with again warm thanks for all.

It is very sad reading about those poor Armenians at Marash. It makes me long to help them.

Yours very sincerely,

Many who saw the wonderful views, "With Allenby in Palestine," would be arrested in the second part of that splendid lecture, the part describing how a young English soldier so merged his personality into that of the Arab as to win their devotion and let him build up an Arab Army. As Commander Hogarth, the famous traveller said, lecturing recently before the Royal Geographical Society, on Arabia: "We have brought a nation to birth—the responsibility is ours." Yes, and what will it mean? Every Moslem is a missionary. They have tried to check the return of the Jews, to hinder the fulfilment of that wonderful prophecy. Thank God, England hopes to keep her word about that. So

There is Turk, to make a Moslem ring of unbelief around the Christians. We hear the words, "Fear not, I am the First and the Last," and "Have the keys of Hell and of Death." If we can again make a place of refuge, perhaps in a sunny high village on the glorious Lebanon, near kind friends, and not far up from the port of Beyrout, will you help us, and in feeding these refugees remember Luke xiv. 12-14: " Call the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind; and thou shalt be blessed, for they cannot recompense thee "? May we and they be of those "that love His appearing." "Behold I come quickly." Even so, come, Lord

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES.

Sir,-There seems some hope that the Allied Governments are taking steps, at last, to save surviving Christians now under Turkish rule from continual massacre. As president of the "Friends of Armenia." I would earnestly plead for the immediate employment of Allied troops, now occupying disturbed districts, and needing reinforcement, in driving out Turkish aggression both in Europe and in Asia Minor. Surely the Allied Powers and Great Britain in particular, are deeply humiliated by their hesitation and weakness, so lamentable on the very morrow of their great victory in the cause of liberty and justice. o s og Yours truly, LUCY C. F. CAVENDISH, President of the "Friends of Armenia." 47, Victoria Street, Westminster, S.W.1. March 10th.

By praying for them. Prayer! What a wnderful thing it is! It is the fundamental part of all true Christian service, and the root of numberless blessings.

Pray that God may give them courage—the divine nerve to press on in spite of obstacles. We are face to face with stern realities. Such utter desolation and need as one finds in this land would be hard to put into words.

Pray that they may be kept physically. We are in the midst of unhealthful living conditions.

Pray that God may give them wisdom-wisdom in the expenditure of the money that is entrusted to them, wisdom in dealing with the people, wisdom in utterance, wisdom in telling the old, old story. We are here to preach full salvation, but we long to present it from an experimental and practical as well as doctrinal standpoint.

Pray that every need may be supplied. The food problem is terrible. The cost of living continues to mount. Practically everything has doubled, and in
